Although the Company sends notices as frequently as possible in order that policies may not lapse by any ommission to pay the premium, this is done as a matter of courtesy only and without any responsibility for any ommission or miscarriage.
You must ensure that you are complying with your duty of disclosure of all material matters and particularly that you satisfy yourself as to the accuracy and completeness of the information you provide to insurers. In this regard you must provide all information whether favourable or not which may influence the judgement of a prudent insurer in determining whether he will accept the risk, and if so, for what premium and on what terms. Failure to observe this obligation could avoid any contract entered into from inception and could lead to claims not being met.
